The Side Screen is a powerful, easy to learn motion offense utilizing a series of "On Ball" side screens. The continuous On Ball screening action puts a tremendous burden on the defense by having to defend it's quick hitting options. Teams that are not adequately prepared to defend side screens will be in for a long night.

O1 passes to O2. O4 moves to the opposite elbow to act as a screener. O3 moves down toward the baseline. O5 curls around O4 for a pass from O2 (and clears back to his original short corner if he doesn't get the pass). After O5 cuts, next O3 curls around O4's screen for the pass from O2 (and clears to the opposite corner).

A motion offense is a category of offensive scheme used in basketball. Motion offenses use player movement, often as a strategy to exploit the quickness of the offensive team or to neutralize a size advantage of the defense. Motion offenses are different from continuity offenses in that they follow no fixed repeating pattern. Instead, a motion offense is free-flowing and relatively unrestricted, though following a set of rules.
