An intentionally blank page or vacat page is a page that is devoid of content and may be unexpected. Such pages may serve purposes ranging from place-holding to space-filling and content separation. Sometimes, these pages carry a notice such as "This page intentionally left blank." Such notices typically appear in printed works, such as legal documents, manuals, and exam papers, in which the reader might otherwise suspect that the blank pages are due to a printing error and where missing pages m

Technically, saying the page 'is' intentionally blank softly implies that something might happen to change its state. "He is President." "He is alive." "This is my dog." "The test is today." are all basic examples of this. Sooner or later, they will all stop being true, due to passage of time. It is fine to say the "This page intentionally left blank."
